

The Apu Palamguwan Cultural Education Center (APC)
is looking for a

CURRICULUM WRITER

APC is a culture-based, Jesuit-supported organization that sustains indigenous schools in the uplands of Bukidnon, northern Mindanao, Philippines. The APC culture-based education offers three programs: K-12 education at the APC schools; Learning at the Dalēpaan: An education outside the classroom; The Forest, Farm, and Leadership at the Margins (FFLM): Learning technical skills and strengthening cultural identity. For more information about APC, please visit <http://apupalamguwancenter.essc.org.ph/>.

The Curriculum Writer helps APC in developing an online course in community-based forest and water management. The output includes a complete instructional and training package with instructional materials and references, lesson plans, and activities that can guide instructors and trainers. The material basis for the course needs to be drawn from ongoing practices and trainings that need professional documentation, and will require being assigned in Bendum, Bukidnon where APC operates.

Requirements:

- College graduate, preferably in Education, English, Creative Writing, or any related field; a master's degree is an advantage
- Has experience and a deep understanding of curriculum development, instruction, teaching methods, and classroom management
- Experience in working on and writing about community-based forest and water management topics is an advantage
- Has excellent communication and writing skills in English
- Has research skills in gathering more information, apart from what is provided by APC
- Has creative skills to develop engaging lesson plans and activities for students
- Has organizational and time management skills to complete tasks and meet deadlines
